Alma Mater

Hark, the students' voices swelling,
Strong and true and clear;
Alma Mater's love they're telling
Ringing far and near.

REFRAIN

William and Mary, loved of old,
Hark upon the gale;
Hear the thunder of our chorus,
Alma Mater—hail!

Iron-shod and golden sandaled
Shall the years go by;
Still our hearts shall weave about thee
Love that cannot die.

All thy sons are faithful to thee
Through their college days;
Singing out of hearts that love thee
Alma Mater's praise.

God, our Father, hear our voices,
Listen to our cry,
Bless the college of our fathers,
Let her never die.

The Class of '35

AS SEEN THROUGH THE CRYSTAL BALL

QUIET! CONCENTRATE DEEPER, DEEPER. The class of '35 will soon appear. Assuredly, eminent teachers, scientists, artists, and executive secretaries will abound in multitudes in this group with a generous proportion of Ph.D.'s. The mist is clearing. The veil is lifting. Who are these corpulent women, wearing arch-preserver shoes, who are coming into focus? The class of '35 in later years. How wonderful it is that the future is unknown!

That tall green and yellow modernistic building in the background, is that the Empire State Building? The College! But where is the expansive campus? Ah! yes, I see it, that green border painted at the base.

If I could only see those individualistic components of that most intelligent, emotionally mature, imposing class of nineteen hundred and thirty-five about their everyday pursuits. The ball has become hazy. A scene is being uncovered.

A crowded street corner. A frantic woman is standing in a soap box shouting "Art insurance, buy now! Special rates for Indians! A free portrait with every policy!" The scene draws nearer. Alas! It is Sue Betty Rex, the dignified president of the class of '35.

The scene begins to quiver. With a burst another takes its place. The aromas of NH_3 pervades the atmosphere. A man and woman are talking earnestly. The conversation—atoms versus molecules. The lecturers, Mr. and Mrs. Medicio (Mary Brooks). The students—gently snoring.

The placid countryside comes into view. Who interrupts that trained agriculturist at his work? A woman dressed in blue with a huge brass star and Oscar Truant by the hand is she and known as Officer Edith Gilman.

Faint music strikes my ear. That divine extravaganza, "The Prison Song," played by Madame Cecilia Tatarsky and her experienced delinquent symphonic orchestra, is carried by the evening breeze.

The symphony in B Flat merges into oriental music. Louise Langhorne is seen expressing her artistic temperament by pasting labels on Chinese pop-crackers.

Julia Dent Salter is seen at her summer home writing the great American play of a "yes" man with an Alabama setting. Shakespeare is drivel compared with this.

A "normal" home is revealed. Johnnie is having a temper tantrum. His mother? Dr. Arsenth Clark is away giving her famous lecture on "How to Raise Perfect Children."

Plaintive blue notes eminate from a near-by night club. Here Catherine Eyster sings the popular ballads "Vitamin D" and "Infant Care."

I see now a long dark road. A car flashes by. The driver is Susan Eubank, who rides continually between Washington and Wilmington.

Who is this? A woman is helping a man unload a ton of coal. It is Alice Loving in her usual helpful mood.

A student appears. With wrinkled brow Flora Miller is reading fervently, "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes."

Classicism becomes socialism. Leah Jacobson sits amid the multitude of admiring swains. She knows that "silence is woman's greatest virtue."

"Pate" Hutcherson is making a valiant effort to civilize the mountaineers, but she strikes them dead with a glance.

The scientist, Flavia Pierotti, has perfected a reducing diet with special rates for the class of '35. We will probably need both.

A famous American is seen in the globe, the first American woman bobsled star, Jeannette Garber.

Janet Wade is revealed giving one of her radio talks on "Advice to the Lovelorn." Included in her talk are how to knit, cook potatoes, and meet an Earl.

With Irish vim, Mary Flaherty is conducting a research in mental measurements.

From the top of a circus tent, Priscilla Garriock, well-known athlete, relates that she is looking at social work for an interesting angle.

A modern Florence Nightingale, Virginia Eberley, is disclosed bending over her patient. Horrors! The medicine is arsenic.

The crystal ball presents Marie Mears, who is attempting to break Rip Van Winkle's record. Her success is attributed to strenuous practice in college.

The venerable social worker, Violet Bernath, tells freshmen that a pink smock keeps one in a good humor.

THAT clean, modern stores attract business.

THAT good will is a priceless asset.

THAT a chain store can and should be public-spirited and civic-minded.

THAT quality is just as much a selling point as price.

THAT courteousness never lost a customer for us or anyone else.
